An Inspiring Time at the 2016 PbS Awards Night

Friday, Aug. 5 was a night of celebration as representatives from residential facilities across the country gathered for the 2016 PbS Awards Night hosted by Performance-based Standards (PbS). The night was special not only for the recipients of the awards, but also for the hosts – this year, the ceremony returned to PbS' hometown of Boston.

Performance and Budgeting Survey

PbS has partnered with two professors on a project to examine performance and budgeting in juvenile justice programs. Specifically, we are interested in learning about the challenges and benefits of engaging performance measures in our agency, and how these measures may or may not be used for budgeting for our programs and services. This survey should take approximately 20 minutes to complete. Your participation in this survey is voluntary. Participants will receive an electronic copy of all reports and results generated from the survey after the research is complete. Thank you in advance for considering participating in this study. The work of PbS, CJCA and these academic studies are efforts to support the ability of state agencies such as yours to provide the highest quality, most efficient and effective juvenile justice programs and services.
